To Whom It May Concern

On November 20, 2025, a proposal for the research titled "A multi-clinic dental panoramic radiograph dataset with expert labels for six conditions and healthy cases" was submitted to the Research Ethics Committee (REC) of the Faculty of Science and Information Technology (FSIT), Daffodil International University, for ethical approval. This study involves the use of multi-clinic dental panoramic radiographs to develop a high-precision benchmark dataset with expert bounding-box annotations across seven clinical categories, aiming to enhance automated object detection accuracy and support clinical decision-making in dental practice. After a thorough review process, the proposal was approved on December 02, 2025. The principal investigator, on behalf of the research team led by Faiza Feroz, a faculty member of the Department of Computer Science and Engineering at Daffodil International University, ensured that the study adhered to strict ethical guidelines. The Research Ethics Committee (REC) emphasizes that the researcher, along with the research team, must follow the approved ethical procedures. These include a strong commitment to privacy and data protection by anonymizing and securely handling all medical data, obtaining proper consent from patients or their legal representatives prior to data collection, and ensuring that participation in the study is entirely voluntary, with the right to withdraw at any stage. Additionally, the study complies with institutional, national, and international ethical standards for biomedical research involving human subjects.

Sincerely,
